More on "Watson Washington"

SOB VP Kashena says Seattle Central College students have preferred access to the parking garage on the street behind (across the street, west of) the Broadway Performance Hall. While Friday is the lightest day for traffic, Con Chair Mimi Noyes says, if that lot isn't available, there's another possibility on Broadway, two blocks north of BPH, next to the Bonney-Watson Funeral Home.

Sherlockian Jerry Margolin, BSI, our Special Guest

The October 16, 2016 Regular Monthly Meeting of The Sound of the Baskervilles will begin at 1:30 p.m. at The Seattle Public Library (Queen Anne Branch) at 400 West Garfield, Seattle (driving directions at left).

If you have a favourite snack or non-alcoholic beverage you'd like to share, please feel free to bring it along!!

Come and hear noted Sherlockian and Oregonian Jerry Margolin, BSI show pictures of and talk about his Sherlockian art collection—which currently numbers more than 3,000 pieces! He hopes to show up to 50 illustrative examples of the one-of-a-kind items in his collection. Says Jerry, "I started collecting Holmes about 45 years ago, amassing a rare collection of books, magazines, paperbacks, pamphlets and comics accumulating about 15,000 items. I started collecting art about the same time, though not nearly as heavily as I do now."

Says PFL David: This is a special and rare opportunity!! I hope you can attend! We will host Jerry & his wife Judy for lunch before the Meeting. We'll meet between 11 and 11:30 a.m. at the Hilltop Ale House, which is at 2129 Queen Anne Avenue North—about 4 or 5 blocks further north of Galer [www.seattlealehouses.com/hilltop; (206) 285-3877].

"Watson Washington" is Upon Us!

It's time to shine the spotlight on Dr. John H. Watson! So, this year the Sherlock Seattle team brings you "Watson Washington"—a convention celebrating all things Watson, from the original ACD Canonical stories to the latest incarnations of the world's most famous doctor!

"Watson Washington" will be held October 21 to 23, 2016 at the Broadway Performance Hall in Seattle, WA. Their two Guests of Honor are Robert Ryan, author of the "Dr. Watson at War" series of novels, and Larry Albert, the voice of Imagination Theater's Dr. Watson.

Check out current plans and additional guests at: <http://www.sherlock-seattle.org/#!/programming/ci94>

Basic Memberships for the weekend are now $60; VIP memberships, $80. As the saying goes, many hands make light work, so Sherlock Seattle is looking for Staff and Volunteers to make "Watson Washington" their best convention yet!

To buy memberships or volunteer, go to: <http://www.sherlock-seattle.org>.

SOBs scheduled to be at Watson Washington—whether to work or play—include VP Kashena Konecki, Webmaster Shannon Wallace, Lauren Messenger, Ariana Maher, James & Ginie Romnes, John Longenbaugh, Margie Deck, and PFL David & Terri.

We hope to see YOU there too!!

A Few Words from our Veep Kashena Konecki!

As reported at the SOB's August 21 Meeting

I Read of You Everywhere:

- ◆ Elizabeth Crowens's debut novel, "Silent Meridian", was released in May. Crowens has devised an alternate history novel featuring ACD and a time traveling professor, John Patrick Scott. "Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is obsessed with a legendary red book. Its peculiar stories have come to life, and rumors claim that it has rewritten its own endings. Convinced that possessing this book will help him write his ever popular Sherlock Holmes stories, he takes on an unlikely partner, John Patrick Scott, known to most as a concert musician and paranormal investigator. Although in his humble opinion, Scott considers himself more of an ethereal archeologist and a time traveler professor. Together they explore lost worlds and excavate realms beyond the knowledge of historians when they go back in time to find it."
- ◆ Otto Penzler has received Bouchercon's David Thompson Special Service Award for "extraordinary efforts to develop and promote the crime fiction field." Otto presides over the Mysterious Bookshop and founded the Mysterious Press in 1975.

I See You Everywhere:

- ◆ Basil Rathbone's "The Hound of the Baskervilles" in 1939 has been released on BluRay for the first time.
- ◆ The Television Academy announced its nominations for this year's Emmy Awards in August, and "Sherlock: The Abominable Bride" won nominations in six categories: one for Benedict Cumberbatch (lead actor in a limited series or movie) and five for the program (television movie; cinematography for a limited series or movie; movie; sound editing for a limited series, movie, or special; sound mixing for a limited series or movie; and visual effects in a supporting role). The Awards, broadcast on September 18, netted only one award but it was for "Outstanding Television Movie"!
- ◆ "Just like Wimbledon, Stella Artois started from humble beginnings," is the slogan for the Belgian company's beer, and they have an amusing commercial in which Sherlock Holmes appears at: www.tinyurl.com/jpv6gu4.
- ◆ It's now official: the next season of the BBC's "Sherlock" will be broadcast in 2017 (according to the brief series 4 teaser at YouTube); www.tinyurl.com/hmq63ub. (You get a brief glimpse of Toby Jones as Culverton Smith).

- ◆ And at a "Sherlock" panel at San Diego's ComicCon, Mark Gatiss, Amanda Abbington and Benedict Cumberbatch revealed the three now-traditional code-word hints for the new season: Sherrinford, Smith, and Thatcher; the panel also included Stephen Moffat and Sue Vertue, but there are only three clues. Smith and Sherrinford seem obvious to devoted fans, who are puzzled by Thatcher. (See more on this on Page 5)

I Hear of You Everywhere:

- ◆ Scott Monty and Burt Wolder have posted their 100th "I Hear of Sherlock Everywhere" podcast: It's a look back at their favorite moments, and an excellent celebration of their nine years of podcasting with a wide-ranging assortment of guests.

Sherlockiana Miscellanea:

- ◆ Trader Joe's Cookie in a Jar "It's Sedimentary, My Dear Cookie!" was the winning name of a contest to name a layered cookie recipe in a mason jar. This product comes out later this year!

Also of interest: From Facebook exchange between VP Kashena with SOB John Longenbaugh: "Sherlock Holmes: Consulting Detective" is a game I know several SOBs own, and apparently it's evolved since its first edition was published in 1981. Do you own it? Have you played it? <http://geekandsundry.com/introduction-to-sherlock-holmes-consulting-detective/?platform=hootsuite> John Longenbaugh posted: Own it, love it. Only played the first three cases, but enjoyed it. The best thing about the game is that you're competing with Sherlock Holmes, and he always gets to a solution in the minimum number of moves.

Things to See, Buy, Do & Know

⇒ SOB Jim Nagle tells us: "Sherlocked USA" is heading to Los Angeles, CA, USA, taking place May 26—28, 2017 at the Marriott LAX. Only Steven Moffett and his wife, producer Sue Vertue are confirmed so far. There are supposed to be eight guests from the series "Sherlock" attending, but the others have not been named. You can pay anywhere from $125 to $2,995 to attend!! For more info, go to: <http://sherlocked.msgfocus.com/c/11Dly7w5DFv0Vo2S3KenPAu> or www.sherlockedusa.com

⇒ Says SOB Sonia Fetherston, BSI: Want! Thought Ineffable Twaddle readers might, too! "Basil and Dawson Sketchbook Ornament, The Great Mouse Detective, Personalizable", $16.95 from Disney. To order, <https://m.disneystore.com/ornaments-seasonal-home-decor-basil-and-dawson-sketchbook-ornament-the-great-mouse-detective-personalizable/mp/1408461/1000344/>

⇒ SOB Airy Maher's pal Portlander Elinor Gray visited us in July; she is a Sherlockian of some renown who when she lived in the UK co-founded, and is still co-President of, The Retired Beekeepers of Sussex—an all-inclusive LGBTQ+ group. To join or to view or subscribe to their newsletter, head to their web at

⇒ Thanks to SOB Margie Deck: In A Curious Collection of Dates: Through the Year with Sherlock Holmes ($34.95, Gasogene Books), Leah Guinn and Jamie N. Mahoney have assembled the most staggering array of research, commentary, and obscure facts ever assembled in one Holmesian volume. Curious about what curious incident occurred on your birthday? It's here. Ever wonder what Canonical event your scion society can celebrate at its next meeting? The answer's inside. Have a guess about the most significant event to happen today in Holmesian history? Look it up!

⇒ Seen in Entertainment Weekly's Summer Double Issue 2016: A recommendation for Kate Summerscale's new true crime book, The Wicked Boy: The Mystery of a Victorian Child Murderer. "It's as engrossing as a novel, but this is the real-life story of a 13-year-old boy who stabbed his mother to death in 1895 London."

⇒ SOB Bill Seil tells us:

- You can hear a "64-Hour Playlist of Sherlock Holmes Stories, With Performances by Sir John Gielgud, Sir Ralph Richardson & Many More" at the following link: <http://www.openculture.com/2016/06/hear-a-64-hour-playlist-of-sherlock-holmes-stories.html>

- Here is something from the Wall Street Journal (WSJ.com) that might interest you: Journalist Ralph Gardner Jr. goes to a meeting of The Priory Scholars of NYC and gets an earful. Read the article at: <http://on.wsj.com/2awQ7po>

- BBC One revealed the episode titles for the first two episodes of Sherlock Season 4, giving major hints at what Sherlock and Watson will get up to. Here's an excerpt: "The first episode is called 'The Six Thatchers,' which is a reference to... 'The Six Napoleons'...The second episode is called 'The Lying Detective,' which is a play on..."

...The Dying Detective'...The first two episode titles match the clues of 'Thather' and 'Smith' that showrunner Steven Moffat previously teased, so the third episode...". For the full article, see: <http://www.tvguide.com/news/sherlock-season-4-episode-titles-spoilers/>. New info to us: "Sherlock returns to PBS in January 2017"!

⇒ Thanks, Dwight Holmes:

So you have always wanted to see Ronald Howard's Sherlock Holmes for yourself; or hear John Stanley's and Alfred Shirley's radio version. Now you can. Here is an interesting website that a friend showed me:

www.archive.org. I went to the Classic TV section and have been watching old Holmes episodes, and there's so much more.

⇒ Thanks to Peter Blau's "Scuttlebutt from the Spermaceti Press:

- The third in their series, Echoes of Sherlock Holmes, edited by Laurie King and Les Klinger ($24.95), is a fine companion to their others, A Study in Sherlock and In the Company of Sherlock Holmes. Echoes is due out on October 16.

- The MX Book of New Sherlock Holmes Stories: Part IV—2016 Annual ($24.95) is the latest in the series edited by David Marcum and it's an excellent companion to the first three volumes with almost two dozen traditional pastiches, a poetic toast and a radio script. The authors, some old hands at the game and some new to it, maintain the high quality of the series and it's nice news indeed that there are more volumes to come.

- In 2008 Columbia Pictures announced they would make a Sherlock Holmes movie with Sacha Baron Cohen as Holmes and Will Ferrell as Watson. Nothing came of it. But now there is a chance that a movie by the name of "Holmes and Watson" will be made with Will Ferrell as Holmes and John C. Reilly as Watson. Production is planned after Thanksgiving.

- Big Chief Studios, which produced a set of licensed 1:6-scale figures showing Benedict Cumberbatch and Martin Freeman last year is going to issue a new set that shows them in costume from "The Abominable Bride"; they're due for release next March, but you can pre-order them now (£189.99 each; www.tinyurl.com/gpthl25).

- The Hillywood Show website's "Sherlock Parody" went viral this month, and you can view it at: www.thehillywoodshow.com, along with 63 minutes of behind-the-scenes footage and 30 minutes of Sherlock's video diary. Hilly Hindi and Hannah Hindi star as Holmes and Watson, and the parody also has cameos appearances by Steven and Louis Moffat. You can read the lyrics to

From SOB Carl T. Wirth:

Kudos to Charlie Cook!!

Got my copy of the September issue of Ineffable Twaddle and thought I'd pass on a comment relating to Charlie Cook's review of "Murder at Lodore Falls" (Page 1) ...AMEN! I have always found it fun to find a new pastiche, in some cases old, when I began collecting them after reading "The Seven Percent Solution" back in the '70s.

Now with the advent of Amazon and computer-generated printing, there are more and more of them and some are so really bad that one doesn't know if it's even worth buying them. I read one set in the 1880s with our duo calling each other "John" and "Sherlock", and I stopped right there. Another was a case set in this same time period and Holmes & Watson were working for the King of England; once I saw that, I tossed it against the wall.

It used to be that pastiche writers did their homework, and you had the feeling 90 percent of the time that Watson really wrote it and it really was lost in the battered dispatch box!

Now, not so much!

So thanks, Charlie, for the tip on "Murder at Lodore Falls". Sorry you had to deal with it but you did a service telling the rest of us to stay away from it.

the parody at: www.tinyurl.com/hx8batx. (You can also read more about it at Sherlockology.com.)

- Steve Mason, President of the Dallas, TX scion society, has announced an interactive map, developed by his son Rusty, showing all of the world's active geographical Sherlockian societies, with links to the websites of societies that have them; it's readily available at The Crew of the Barque Lone Star's own website at: www.tinyurl.com/hvt37sx.

- Peggy Perdue, as curator, has the Toronto Public Library hard at work digitizing photographs from the Arthur Conan Doyle Collection and making them available online; you can see some of them now, and there are many more to come. Just go to: www.torontopubliclibrary.ca, search for "arthur conan doyle" and click on "images" in the left-hand column.

- Those who attended "The Misadventures of Sherlock Holmes" (the conference at the University of Minnesota in June) had a chance to see the delightful exhibition of treasures from the Sherlock Holmes Collections at the Elmer L. Anderson Library. Those who didn't attend the conference can watch a four-minute video tour narrated by Darren Terpstra (who designed the exhibition) and Tim Johnson (curator of the collections) at: www.tinyurl.com/hux8215

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION OF

SHERLOCK HOLMES

Footprints, splatter patterns and the powers of observation mark the journey through

“The International Exhibition of Sherlock Holmes”, coming to Seattle’s Pacific Science Center, October 15 through January 8.

The International Exhibition of Sherlock Holmes features original manuscripts and period artifacts, investigative tools influenced and used by Sherlock Holmes, and interactive crime-solving opportunities.

Guests will be transported into Sherlock Holmes’ London to solve a crime in a world filled with innovation and experimentation.

Tickets are now available. Prices are $9 for the general public; $7 for members
